THE PRESIDENT'S BRIDE.

SHE ARRIVED IN NEW YORK YESTERDAY AND STARTED FROM HERE.

Embarks at the Chicago Gate—Miss Folsom Alights Her Father-Passengers with a Story—The Bride-Elect Leaves the Queen Quietly Pressed by the Reporters—A Race Up the River—The Farewell Words Flashed.

NEW YORK, May 27.—[Special.]—Miss Frances Folsom, the young woman who is said to be engaged to President Cleveland, arrived in this city this evening on the steamship Eruria of the Red Star Line from Antwerp, and is domiciled at the Gilsey House, with a number of fellow-passengers, who, like herself, are kept busily employed by the reporters. The steamship is not due to dock until to-morrow morning, but owing to the fact that she is a very fast boat, she managed to make the trip up the bay and is comfortably tied to the dock at the foot of Fifty-second street. Her fellow-passengers also include Democrats on having been greatly pleased with the future mistress of the White House.

Among the stars of the voyage the cable passengers of the Eruria must undoubtedly be placed at the head. Miss Folsom was one of a numerous company embarked on the North Pilsen Spring. Miss Folsom was one of the contributors to the journal. Although the contributions were all anonymous, it was generally understood that Miss Folsom's contribution was an original story. The heroine of which is "Little Bell," a fresh young girl who has succeeded in the affections of a number of gentlemen. Her choice finally falls upon the hero, a handsome Englishman, who, after a number of exciting adventures, succeeds in winning the heart of the fair young American. The story is said to be a very pretty one, and is highly spoken of by the passengers who had the opportunity of reading it. Miss Folsom was accompanied by her mother and a number of friends, all of whom were very much pleased with the treatment they received on board the steamship. The voyage was a very pleasant one, and the passengers speak in the highest terms of the officers of the vessel. The Eruria is a very fast boat, and the run from Antwerp to this port was made in nine days and a few hours. The run up the bay was a very fast one, and the steamship was docked at the foot of Fifty-second street at 6:30 o'clock this evening. Miss Folsom was met at the dock by a number of friends, who had been awaiting her arrival for some time. Among those who were present to welcome the fair young bride-elect were Mrs. Hoyt, Miss Hoyt, Miss Folsom, and Mr. Folsom, brother of the young lady. Mr. Folsom was accompanied by his wife. Mrs. Folsom was dressed in a handsome traveling suit of dark blue cloth, and looked very well after her long voyage. She was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Folsom, who was also dressed in a handsome traveling suit of dark material. Both ladies looked very much pleased at their safe arrival in this country, and were evidently glad to get on terra firma once more. Mrs. Folsom, who seemed to be the leader of the party, was very much excited, and was constantly talking to the reporters who had gathered around her. Miss Folsom was very much excited, and was constantly looking for her mother and sister, who had gone to the custom-house to look after the baggage. THE CATHOLICS GO HOME CHICAGOANS UP IN AN ASTONISHED STYLE.

Amory's Men Fail to Do Anything at All with the Capital Club—Games at New York and Philadelphia—Outing at St. Louis Park—The Latonia Spring Meeting—The Speed Trials—In the Stage Coach Line—In the Stage—Other Base Ball Notes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28.—(Special.)—The Cubs went into the Chicago elevators at Capitol Park today and gave them a thorough trimming. The Chicago team put players in the field to stay from start to finish, and a large score was at the end of the game. The Cubs were unable to get a man to second base. The Cubs were fed to the lions. Dixon took care of both Cleveland and Dunn, and both were advanced a base on a wild pitch. Dunn followed with a single, on which Dixon scored. Baker got the ball pitched to him into right field for two bases, and Cleveland and Dunn scored the plate. Baker subsequently ran home on Everett's single. Hamilton ran to Virgin and Dunn scored. Everett's home run by the right of which two runs, three of which were earned.

The Chicago men seemed to regain color in the field, but in the second inning Amory sent off with a single. Fuller went to first on balls, and their chances for scoring were thought to be good, but their aerial shots to pitch and the side was thrown out without any runs on hits to the infield. The features of the game were the batting of Virgin and Everett and the batting of the latter. The score:

Philadelphia Gets Even with Boston.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 28.—(Special.)—The Philadelphias returned from a disastrous Western trip today and opened their home season by wiping out their obscure debt and win. The Cards (by name) looked under some disadvantages, many of the men being unfamiliar with the field, and the ground was wet, slippery, and full of pitfalls. They were at no disadvantage at the mercy of Nagle's pitching, but that the game been fought their might have won it. The score:

New York Runs Away with St. Louis.

NEW YORK, May 28.—(Special.)—The New Yorks made their first appearance on the polo grounds today since their return from the West in a contest in which they had for their opponents the St. Louis "Black Diamonds." Both picked a strong game and he was given up in support. The game failed to give an exhibition of their power as heavy hitters, but this was due to the work of Hawes, the pitcher of the opposing team, who was very successful in his delivery, and the poor, gruesome character with which both teams met. Only seven hits were made off Hawes, and these were scattered over the nine innings. The score:

Standing for the Spring Grand Prize.

LOUISVILLE, May 27.—The race for the Spring grand prize, the Latonia cup, was the only attraction worth mentioning at Churchill Downs today. The race was a quarter mile, at Spring value, and was won by Lord Wellington's bay colt Caithness. Lord Wellington's chestnut colt Sir Dixon was second and C. E. Kreiker's brown colt St. Elmo third. There were eight other starters, as follows: Prince Humperdinck's bay colt Prince, D. D. Chaffee's bay colt Duchess, C. Lambert's bay colt Fleming, C. J. ON THE TURF.

Closely and Fast at Jerome Park.

NEW YORK, May 27.—(Special.)—There were a very few people at Jerome Park today. The course never looked prettier, but the weather was against a large increase of the card, usually heavier and on account of the long list mentioned. One race was scratched for Saturday the order of Lancaster Drake. The track was in much better condition than the preceding day, and the principal event, the Jerome Handicap, was run in good time. The event had a good surprise, as Mr. Clement's pretty chestnut filly Ornament, ridden by Taral, was handicapped out to the front from the start and merely got away the Withers Stable to beat to the wire. In fact, when the colt started for home Taral was not asked to be extra, but he did not even go over the course. Ornament is a very promising youngster, and the fact that she is such a good one at this early date has her followers talking of the Futurity. Summaries:

First race, one mile—Dunboyne, 1 to 2, Taral, 1; Lucky Dog, 2 to 1, Hamilton, 2; Bonnie Scotland, 10 to 1, Clayton, 3. Time, 1:46.

Sam Mills and Harry Gilmore to Fight at Daylight This Morning.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 27.—(Special.)—Sam Mills and Harry Gilmore fight to a finish at daylight tomorrow morning at some point near here. At 11 o'clock tonight a connection with the box of Australian seven with about 1,000 persons on board, of whom fully 500 were Canadians, leaves this city here to see the fight. The train's destination is unknown save to the Canucks and Frank Trotsch, the owner of a steam-tug. Both principals are confident of winning the fight. Mills is a Toronto butcher. He was once defeated by Gilmore.

Some Canucks Talk Of Arrest.

DETROIT, Mich., May 27.—(Special.)—Some Canucks who were on the Australian seven that left here last night for the prize fight between Sam Mills and Harry Gilmore are now in this city, having been driven back by the police. They were arrested on the boat, but were released on their promise to appear in court this morning. Some of the party say they will have warrants sworn out for the arrest of the fighters, and others say they will not. The boat left for Detroit at 1 o'clock this morning.

Sullivan Selected Not for the Coming Contest But Sure at Fulton.

Up to the present time there has been no referee selected for the engagement next between John Cushing and John Duncan at Fulton the 25th of next month. Mr. Duncan, Fulton's backer, has made offers to Mr. C. A. Gillis, the backer of Cushing, naming Mr. Hanley of the Fort Hall, and Chris Mitchell, noted in the Coast, but Mr. Gillis has refused to accept them. The latest move is to select Mr. John L. Sullivan, and Mr. Gillis has telegraphed that he will accept him. Mr. Duncan has not yet replied to the telegram, but it is thought that he will accept Mr. Sullivan, as he has a good deal of confidence in the latter's ability to referee a fair contest. ANARCHIST MURDERERS.

THE CONFESSIONS MADE BY THE PRISONERS BEFORE THE GRAND JURY.

Spies and His Fellow-Criminals Talk the Matter Over with a Reporter—Mr. Grinnell Wants to Try Them Week After Next—Their Counsel Say They Cannot Be Ready Then—Some W. Curtis Among Those Charged with Murder—The Fighter Signed to the "Arbeiter-Zeitung."

The grand jury that sits before Judge Gary's court at 11:30 o'clock each morning presented a batch of seventy-one indictments, ten of them against anarchists and the others charging colored prisoners with the commission of various offenses. In addition to the indictments of Judge Gary's court, the grand jury returned to the Criminal Court of Cook County several indictments. They would have made the full dozen had not three of those to jail been released when the charges were made out. During the afternoon Messrs. Spies, Schwab, Fielden, Neebe, Michael Schaack, Oscar W. Dunn, Adolph Fischer and Louis Lingg were indicted for murder, each one in the case of Louis Lingg and George Engel were indicted in the County Jail yesterday afternoon, and put in the charge of the Deputy Sheriffs, who took them to the Criminal Court building. Before being brought to the bar of justice they were photographed for the benefit of the "Rogues' Gallery." Lingg was the first prisoner taken, and he was placed with his back against a white screen and his face to the camera. Engel followed, and then the others, Schaack, Fischer, Fielden, Schwab, Spies and Neebe. Lingg's right is a splendid head, and the photographer was not much out, if any, in the full face view he took of it. Spies's head is also a splendid one, and the picture is a good one. Schaack's face is a strong one, and the picture is a good one. Fischer's face is a strong one, and the picture is a good one. Fielden's face is a strong one, and the picture is a good one. Schwab's face is a strong one, and the picture is a good one. Neebe's face is a strong one, and the picture is a good one. Dunn's face is a strong one, and the picture is a good one. Curtis's face is a strong one, and the picture is a good one. Each prisoner was made to sit for a number of photographs, and when the operation was finished the prisoners were taken back to their cells.

Spies and Fielden Were Talkative.

August Spies, Fielden, and Schaack took the stage on the open floor of the entrance to the jail garden. There they exercised their alternoon privilege of walking about and conversing with each other and their counsel. Spies seemed to be very much excited. Imprisonment is evidently telling on his nerves. Fielden, however, keeps as philosophical as his accident-inspired mind will permit. Schaack, all three witnesses testified, was in conversation nearly all the time with his counsel, Attorney Black. Neebe, Fischer, Lingg and Engel were locked in their cells. Lingg was in a terrible rage. He was furious.

Counsel Ready for the Trials.

State's Attorney Grinnell, when asked last evening how soon the trials would begin, said: "The State is ready now. We expect to get a jury tomorrow, and I have notified the counsel for some of the accused parties of that fact. I would like to have the trials begin the week after next. I would like to have the Anarchists' cases all disposed of before the Fourth of July. Then I shall be ready to take up the cases of the Communists. Then I shall be ready to take up the cases of the Socialists. Then I shall be ready to take up the cases of the Democrats. Then I shall be ready to take up the cases of the Republicans. Then I shall be ready to take up the cases of the Whigs. Then I shall be ready to take up the cases of the Federalists. Then I shall be ready to take up the cases of the Tories. PARIS, May 27.—[By Cable.]—There was a sensational attack today in the Chamber of Deputies against the members of the Orleans Family, in the shape of a bill introduced by Deputy Lagrafeuille, and signed by fifty-six members of the Extreme Left, but not Socialists. The bill provides that the Princes of the Orleans Family, who formerly reigned in France, shall be prohibited from residing in the country, and that their property shall be confiscated. The bill also provides that the Princes of the Orleans Family, who formerly reigned in France, shall be prohibited from residing in the country, and that their property shall be confiscated. "HAMLET" IN DUMB SHOW.

An Entertainment by the South London Deaf and Dumb Dramatic Club.

LONDON, May 27.—A curious entertainment was given last night in the Manor-street in the Manor Assembly Rooms at Kensington Park, in the presence of the Duke of York and a number of the nobility and gentry. The South London Deaf and Dumb Dramatic Club is the creation of the institution which has succeeded in bringing the deaf and dumb of the district together in a social way. The club has been in existence for two years, and has a membership of about 100. The entertainment last night was given by the members of the club, and was attended by a large audience. The performance was given in the form of a play, and was entirely in dumb show. The play was "Hamlet," and was performed by the members of the club. The performance was very successful, and the audience was very much pleased with it. The club is to be congratulated on the success of its entertainment.

ORIGIN OF THE COMETS.

THEORY AS TO THE DIFFERENCES OF THE TWO GREATEST CLASSES.

Many of the Known Comets and Nearly Nineteen-Twenties Supplied from the Earth, the Rest from Other Planets and the Same Products of Similar Eruption.

The latest number of the Fortnightly Review contains an article on the origin of the comets, written by Proctor, which seems to possess more than ordinary interest. He considers that the bodies of Encke's, Biela's, and Tuttle's comets (a category that every meteoric shower or star fall associated with a comet path seems to fall into) are probably of terrestrial origin, having nothing to do with the comet's tail, and that all meteoric bodies, from those which enter our atmosphere with the velocity of a cannon ball to those which enter with the velocity of a rifle ball, may be regarded as bodies of the same kind, though they may differ in constitution or mode of motion. But the full extent that this is subsequently found not by any means even with it the two very distinct systems are traversed until the orbits take him to the moon. The great planets of the solar system have certainly formed comets into short paths, and several have to travel around them, but mathematical analysis shows that a flight of bodies large enough to produce any of the meteoric showers would have its components widely separated by the disturbing action of the planets, instead of being thrown into such orbits. But there are about 100 of these showers each year over the orbit of the earth, and the associations many millions of meteors each year. On the generally accepted theory of nebular origin of the solar system, it is difficult to get a distribution so over-lapping that there have been millions of millions of comets to supply them, to account for so many showings to cross the earth's path, while the starting circumstances to be considered in the case of the meteors, that every one out of a hundred of them under parts do not cross the earth's orbit at all. Even then an assumption with a great deal more than is required for the comets.

The theory now most widely adopted, that of Laplace, is that comets are projected from volcanoes in the sun's atmosphere. Those which return to the sun's neighborhood in short periods are supposed to have been projected with a small velocity, and those which return in long periods with a greater velocity. Those which do not return at all are supposed to have been projected with a velocity greater than that of the sun's attraction. I had assumption of the sun's attraction. I had assumption of the sun's attraction. I had assumption

The Government secret-service officers are trying to locate the counterfeiters who have been put a new lot of bogus $5 silver notes into circulation. The counterfeit is a good imitation of the genuine, so it needs the test of weight, size, and ring to pronounce. The point of which it is composed, however, is so brittle that a fall on a marble floor will break it. The only other way to detect the stuff is in the silling, which is slightly imperfect.

The National Wire Mattress and Spring-bed Association was organized yesterday with twenty members. Its objects are for mutual benefit, action in labor troubles and to control prices and production. The following were elected officers: President, C. L. Sass, Chicago; Vice-President, H. L. Bailey, Detroit; Secretary and Treasurer, H. S. Hays, St. Louis; Executive Committee, William Hawley, Chicago; S. A. Rose, Cincinnati; E. Allen, Burlington, Ia.

Mrs. Kate Middleton, the wife of the saw-mill manager, George Middleton, was living on separate maintenance in favor of the court, was yesterday arrested by Constable Vogel on complaint of Mrs. Frances Lacy, who charges the defendant with threatening her with great bodily injury. Mrs. Middleton, after living in the same house, ended hostilities at the commencement, but upon receiving notice of the proceedings, she came to the conclusion that she would be the better off in jail, and so she went there. Justice Love sentenced the case.

Three prisoners pardons were left on yesterday in the Executive Office during the absence of Governor. They were: Mrs. Emily Bullock, Charles Johnson, and Henry Harris. The latter was in a waiting mood by the side of the cage of convicts, in front of the office of C. Bonfoey, 181 State street, and as he put the other two pardons in the envelopment to get the pardons. The other two were never seen, and he then hastened to the office of the Governor, where he found the pardons. He then returned to the cage and released Harris.

A small sensation was created yesterday by the discovery in the lake of the dead body of a man with a large hole in his leg, the first impression being that he was an American who had died from a hemorrhage. The body was subsequently identified as that of Frederick Hoffman, a brother, who lived at Cass and Erie streets, in the Town of Lake, and worked in one of the packing-houses. Coroner Hoffman assisted Dr. Schmidt, assistant coroner, in the examination of the body, and decided that no inquest was necessary. Justice Hoffman, who had the treatment of the deceased for "severe and continuous drinking," but at there was no evidence to show that he had died from any other cause than drowning.

Henry Kenney, a driver for Reid's Express Company, left his team in front of Bonfoey's safe, on Lincoln street, and went in to deliver a parcel. She was taken to the hospital, and her injuries were found to be not serious.

Mrs. Robinson of No. 139 East Huron street was before Justice Brazee yesterday charged with cruelty to her little Mary, her 11-year-old stepdaughter. Officer Dooley of the Humane Society testified that he had investigated the case. The father of the child had left her family several months ago, and since then she had been practically starved to death at the hands of Mrs. Robinson. She was discharged, and the accused was fined $50, which was paid by Mrs. Robinson's attorney. The other defendants were Mrs. Robinson and her daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Robinson, who were also fined $50 each. PEPPER OF A TYPHOID JOURNEY BY A CHICAGO TRAVELER.

The Southern Engine Screws Throttle and Chattanooga—The Leather, Coal, and Iron Interests—Chattanooga and Its Press—Guerrillo's Attractions—A Pleasant View—Maryville College and Its History—Local Option—Attending the Colored People.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—From Cincinnati I proceeded by the Cincinnati Southern through the best part of Kentucky and over the Cumberland Mountains to Chattanooga. The trouble here a railroad was ever constructed through such a mountainous region as that lying between Danville and Chattanooga. There are on the Southern Railway eleven tunnels, seven of them nearly a mile long. The country traversed is much rougher than that over which the Northern Pacific first passed to connect with the Rocky Mountains. There is a great amount of good timber in the Cumberland Mountains which will before many years make that region rich in lumber, but which can at present have to be utilized. Along the streams on the south side of the mountains the land was covered in primeval forests of unsurpassed magnificence. In the Valley of Tennessee, into which the railroad descends at the north end of the Cumberland Mountains, there is a rich agricultural region, which extends from Chattanooga, over which I passed, to Knoxville, and for many miles north of Chattanooga, into Kentucky. It is evidently destined to become a great city. There are no serious hills or elevations to the north, so the cities are readily extended. The common system of Chattanooga is an elevated ground, whose extreme boundaries are unseen. The largest factories have been and are being built there. Among Chattanooga's manufactures are leather, coal, and iron interests. Chattanooga and its press—Guerrillo's attractions—A Pleasant View—Maryville College and Its History—Local Option—Attending the Colored People.

Chattanooga, which has been chiefly built up since the War, now enjoys a population of 30,000, a large proportion of the people having come from the North. The city is in the center of the Tennessee River and the Cumberland Mountains, so we have penetrating the great fault of the Tennessee River. The water-power in Chattanooga are becoming a characteristic feature. It is evidently destined to become a great city. There are no serious hills or elevations to the north, so the cities are readily extended. The common system of Chattanooga is an elevated ground, whose extreme boundaries are unseen. The largest factories have been and are being built there. Among Chattanooga's manufactures are leather, coal, and iron interests.

Chattanooga is an important railroad center, and has quite a trade coming to it from different directions. The surroundings are unusual and picturesque. The Tennessee River, on which Chattanooga is situated, is a wide and beautiful stream. Lookout Mountain on the northwest, about 1,200 feet high, Missionary Ridge on the south, the site of a certain famous battle between the Confederate and Union armies, are noticeable and interesting features of the landscape. Before the war, Gen. Longstreet had a fine residence on Missionary Ridge, which was confiscated and sold. Gen. Longstreet is now a resident of Gainesville, Ga., where he has a large farm and is engaged in raising cotton. He was in command at Knoxville when I was there, and I had a pleasant interview with him. He is a man of great ability, and has a very interesting history. He was a warm personal friend of Gen. Grant, and was with him at the surrender of Lee's army at Appomattox. He is a Republican, and is now serving his fourth term as Railroad Commissioner of Georgia. He is not a man to be trifled with, and I am told that he has a large following of men who would stand by him in a fight.

Guerrillo's Attractions.

Guerrillo is an attractive little city, and has many pleasant residences. The surroundings are unusual and picturesque. The Tennessee River, on which Chattanooga is situated, is a wide and beautiful stream. Lookout Mountain on the northwest, about 1,200 feet high, Missionary Ridge on the south, the site of a certain famous battle between the Confederate and Union armies, are noticeable and interesting features of the landscape. He is not a man to be trifled with, and I am told that he has a large following of men who would stand by him in a fight.

The East Tennessee Railroad, leaving from Chattanooga to Knoxville, 112 miles, runs through a rich valley containing the finest farms I have seen since leaving the Red River valley in the extreme west. The Valley is from twenty to thirty miles wide. Its population is not dense—about 50,000. I need be pardoned for speaking somewhat strongly of this beautiful valley and its people. It is the north half of Tennessee River, having spread, for the first eighty miles of its course, through the County of Lees and in Bloun counties, which I did not see the light. Knoxville is a city of about 30,000 people. The streets are handsome and many of the residences are elegant. Knoxville is the commercial center of East Tennessee, and has a large trade. The country surrounding it is very fine. The soil is a rich limestone clay, and is very productive. Knoxville is the seat of the University of East Tennessee, which is under the control of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. It has a fine location on the top of a hill overlooking the city, and has a large number of students. I had a pleasant interview with Chancellor Brown, who is a Northern man by birth, but has been in the South for many years. He is a scholarly, cultured gentleman, and has the confidence of the people. The Chancellor's residence is on the same hill with the University, and I took a delightful walk with him through the beautiful grounds. The University is in a very prosperous condition, and is doing a good work. Knoxville, Tenn., May 27.—[Special.]—The outlook for crops was never more promising in this section of the State than at present. The acreage planted in cotton is not extensive. The acreage of winter wheat will be the best harvested in many years. Corn planting is nearly over and considerable is up. Other grains look well.

TAZEWELL, Tenn., May 27.—[Special.]—Farmers are jubilant over the prospects for an abundant crop. All kinds of small grain are in splendid condition, and the acreage of corn is unusually large. The tobacco crop will be one of the largest ever raised in this county.

HARRISON, Tenn., May 27.—[Special.]—There has been no rain of any account for two weeks, and the corn crop is almost all planted, and the cotton is all up. There will be a very large yield of blackberries, and insects are attacking the orchards, which are promising a good crop.

BRISTOL, Tenn., May 27.—[Special.]—Due to the reports of general failure in reference to harvest fruits in Northern Tennessee, and there are no apprehensions of serious damage to crops by frost.

BUTCHERED BY BANDS.

Cleveland's Treachery or Posthumous Secretary of State.

New York Tribune: The Dana Department-store ownership cannot the Attorney Building Industry to take to profession of rigid non-intervention as fact. Mr. Depew writes a book has recommended to describe the Interstate policy in one instance as a great outrage upon the Democracy's commercial rights. But for fifteen months preceding that decision the Democracy had been wholly indifferent to the interests of the fishing fleet, and has since advocated a policy which is grossly in the Democratic interest but by which the gentlemen before mentioned have been affected. Congress had suspended the fishing clauses of the treaty of Washington; the privileges there conferred upon the fishermen of the United States had been withdrawn, and the Democratic Administration had been asked to recommend the adoption of a law authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue licenses to vessels engaged in the fishing trade. This would necessitate on the part of the fishermen of the United States the payment of a fee, and the Democratic party had been charged with the responsibility of imposing a tax upon the industry. Under these circumstances Secretary Olney, on his own responsibility, declared that the fishing vessels of the United States were entitled to the same privileges in the waters of the British provinces that had been granted to the vessels of other countries, and that the Treasury Department would not require the payment of the fee. This was in accordance with the spirit of the treaty, and was the only course which could be pursued by the Administration. Secretary Olney has been severely criticised for his action, but he takes the position that he construed the understanding of the Democratic party correctly, and that the Administration would be recreant to its duty if it failed to protect the interests of the fishermen. Secretary Olney has been in public life before for considerable time, and has held several positions of trust and responsibility. He has been Attorney-General of the United States, and has been a member of the Cabinet for four years. He was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature for several years, and was Speaker of the House of Representatives of that State. He was also a member of the Massachusetts Senate for several years, and was President of the Senate during the last year of his service. He has been a member of the Boston Common Council, and was also a member of the Boston School Committee. He was also a member of the Boston Board of Aldermen. He has been a member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard College, and is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and has been for many years. He is the author of the well-known work on the Monroe Doctrine, and has been a frequent contributor to the North American Review and other publications. He is a member of the Union League Club of Boston, and is also a member of the Somerset Club of that city. He is a member of the Union League Club of New York, and is also a member of the Metropolitan Club of Washington. He is a member of the Loyal Legion, and is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. He is a member of the Society of Colonial Wars, and is also a member of the Society of the War of 1812. MINNEAPOLIS WHEAT AND FLOUR.

The Day's Receipts of Wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth Are Still Unprecedented—Shipments of Different Grades.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 27.—[Special.]—The vast receipts of wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth are still unprecedented. Minneapolis sees 331 cars and 111 in Duluth. There were 370 cars of wheat on sidetracks in this city this morning to be cleared off. Some of the railroad companies are getting cars on account of wheat being left on cars in the track before being cleared, and are charging a demurrage. The receipts of wheat at Minneapolis have been 10,000,000 bushels for the present crop year from May 1 to April 25, last year, the receipts were 10,000,000 bushels. During the month of May, one year ago, the average receipts were about 500,000 a day. At this time the average is about 1,000,000 a day. There is more wheat coming forward now than ever before, and the receipts are expected to be large for some time to come. Of the wheat coming in, about 75 per cent is No. 1 hard, 15 per cent No. 1 northern, and 10 per cent No. 2 northern. The shipments of flour are also very large. The Minneapolis mills are running full time, and the shipments of flour are about 30,000 barrels a day. The shipments of flour from Minneapolis and Duluth for the week ending May 23 were 150,000 barrels, and for the week ending May 16 were 140,000 barrels. The shipments of flour from Minneapolis and Duluth for the week ending May 23 were 150,000 barrels, and for the week ending May 16 were 140,000 barrels.

CROPS.

Encouraging Reports from Various Sections of the Country.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 27.—[Special.]—Reports from Southern and other sections are favorable to good crops. The farmers are considerably worried over the threatened attack of chinch bugs in the growing crops.

KENTUCKY TOBACCO AMOUNT OF INTERESTS.

Pat Sid Chatter: A reporter engineer gave recently a lecture at Cincinnati on the cultivation system of Kentucky and Southern growing tobacco. In said that the Kentucky and Southern tobacco gave about two-thirds of its weight of phosphate, while the Kentucky only gave about one-third phosphate, but a greater proportion of tobacco, while the Kentucky tobacco only one-quarter phosphate, and therefore costly to cultivate. Kentucky and Southern tobacco are two kinds of tobacco. Kentucky tobacco is principally used for chewing tobacco, and Southern tobacco is principally used for smoking tobacco. The Kentucky tobacco is of a heavier body than the Southern tobacco, and is therefore more suitable for chewing tobacco. The Southern tobacco is of a lighter body than the Kentucky tobacco, and is therefore more suitable for smoking tobacco.

Pat Sid Chatter: A creation engineer gave recently a lecture at Cincinnati on the cultivation system of Kentucky and Southern growing tobacco. VALLANDIGHAM'S SON.

HE IS ACCUSED OF DESERTION TO CHEAT FOR HIS FINE FRIEND.

The Crimes with Which He Is Charged—Benign Administration of the Senate Clerk by the Old Copperhead Organ—The Career of a Valandigham Darling in the East.

Savannah—[Clerk's Note: See Impression from the Southern Side that a Son of Copperhead Memory Should Run Away from Service in the Federal Army.] Somewhere beyond a Georgia Mountain the Most Wrong Man who ever Crossed Turtle Creek was arrested on the arrival of the south-bound Cincinnati Southern express train after dusk last night. Detectives Dan Hogan and Jack Donaldson, of the Central Station, had been waiting for him a long time, and a description of his appearance had been sent to the police of every city and town on the line of the road. The moment he stepped off the train he was spotted, and before he had gone a dozen steps he was under arrest. He made no resistance, but asked the officers what it was all about. They told him, and he then said: "Well, I suppose I'll have to go back, but I'll be damned if I'll go without a fight." He was then taken to the Central Station, where he was searched, and a number of letters found on his person. These letters were addressed to Clement L. Vallandigham, and were signed by the prisoner's name, Vallandigham. The letters were written from Savannah, Ga., and were dated at various points in Georgia, the last one being dated at Macon. The prisoner refused to make any statement in regard to the charges against him, but said that he would have no trouble in proving his innocence when he got back to Dayton. He was then locked up in the station-house, and left in charge of the police. Chief of Police Hunter, of Dayton, arrived in this city this morning, and took charge of the prisoner, who will be taken to Dayton this afternoon. The prisoner is a son of Clement L. Vallandigham, the well-known Democratic politician of Dayton, who was a candidate for Governor of Ohio during the war, and who was banished to the South by President Lincoln. The prisoner's father is a prominent lawyer of Dayton, and has been a leading politician in that city for many years. He was a member of the Democratic National Committee from Ohio for a number of years, and was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which met in Chicago in 1864, which nominated General McClellan for President. He was also a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which met in New York in 1868, which nominated Horatio Seymour for President. He was also a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which met in Cincinnati in 1880, which nominated General Hancock for President. He was also a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which met in Chicago in 1884, which nominated Grover Cleveland for President. He was also a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which met in St. Louis in 1888, which nominated Grover Cleveland for President. He was also a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which met in Chicago in 1892, which nominated Grover Cleveland for President. He was also a delegate to the Democratic National Convention which met in St. Louis in 1896, which nominated William Jennings Bryan for President.

There have been a good many sly hints and insinuations that Charles L. Vallandigham is a traitor to the Democratic party and that he secured his friends and the men who control him in office, among the Democratic bosses and those who administer party favors, by betraying the Democratic party. He left the party on the Chicago platform, but it has never been charged that he left it for any other reason than that he could not get on as high a level with it as he could with the Republican party. The fact that he was elected to Congress as a Democrat and that he was defeated as a Democrat, and that he was defeated as a Democrat, and that he was defeated as a Democrat,
